

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A multichannel wavelength-division multiplex fiber optic transmission system includes an optical transmitter and an optical receiver connected by an optical line including at least one optical fiber and at least one set of channel regenerators.

- 5 Successive regenerators regenerate respective groups of channels forming a subset of the set of channels.